

Educational Programme	History and socio-anthropology of the modern era
Degree Awarded	Master in History and socio-anthropology of the modern era
Standard Length of Studies (Number of ECTS Credits)	2 years – 4 semesters – 120 ECTS
Type of Study	Full-time
Higher Education Institution	Babeş-Bolyai University
Faculty / Department	Faculty of History and Philosophy
Contact Person	Prof. Ioan Bolovan Ph.D.
Phone	+40 264 405300
Fax	+40 264 405326
E-mail	bolovani@yahoo.com
Profile of the Degree Programme	History and socio-anthropology of the modern era
Target Group / Addressees	Considering the interdisciplinary nature of the programme in the framework of social sciences and the humanities (history, anthropology, demography, sociology, philosophy etc.), the master's degree programme is designed for all graduates regardless of their BA degree.
Entrance Conditions	Admission requirements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ research project-based interview accompanied by a CV and motivation letter ▪ selection criteria for equal average grades: overall average grade, graduation examination average grade.
Further Education Possibilities	The master's programme aims at providing students with the appropriate tools for further doctoral studies.
Description of Study	The master's programme in History and socio-anthropology of the modern era is structured into four specialized areas: Historical Anthropology, Historical Demography, The history of collective mentalities, The History of Europe (with special emphasize on the history of Transylvania) Core courses: Anthropology; Recent Historical anthropology issues; Myths and modern political mythology; History of Europe's population and historical demography; Political structures and cultural institutions in modern Transylvania; International migrations and demographic policy in the XIX-XXI centuries; Ideology and Culture in Transylvania in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries; Church and Society in Europe in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries; The history of attitudes to death; Modernization of the rural world; Anthropology of food and human-animal relationship; Secularization and the modern world; Economic modernization of the Habsburg Empire
Purposes of the Programme	Based upon rigorous scientific methods, modern teaching and analysis schemes, with an interactive and co-participative character, the master's degree programme aims to provide students with in-depth knowledge and to develop the competences and skills required on the professional markets in the area of history, anthropology and historical demography

Specialization / Area of Expertise	History; historical anthropology and historical demography
Extra Peculiarities	-
Practical Training	During the two years of the master's program the curriculum sets several specialty practices and 4 research seminars.
Final Examinations	Research thesis
Gained Abilities and Skills	The graduate students should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - be able to accurately use the historical, demographical, anthropological terminology; - gather, analyse and interpret historical, demographic, economic and social data from a qualitative and quantitative perspective in order to draw up ideas, arguments and statements - have the ability to analyse, synthesize and provide forecasts and to prove an analytic, synthetic and innovative spirit, as well as good judgement, realism and flexibility in thinking; - use the information technology
Job Placement, Potential Field of Professional Activity	There are a variety of job placements for the graduates. Possible career paths: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) history teacher, archivist, librarian, curator, researcher, expert 2) media editor, publisher, consultant in theatre / film, politics and administration